Guest Comments

“HHouse is an absolute God-Send thank you for being faithful and being here for us.”

“The people here are so friendly and this is a very nice, clean and comfortable place to stay while visiting my husband.”

“They are a powerhouse of prayer.”

Angela, a mother living along the U.S./Mexico border, twice a year, makes the 13 hour journey to come visit her son. She speaks only Spanish, and doesn’t own a cell phone, so she relies on the kindness of people to make it through the day of travel and weekend visits.

When asked why she makes this arduous journey, and where she finds the courage for it, she simply responds, “Es mi hijo, y si su propia madre no lo puede perdonar y enseñarle sobre la misericordia de Dios, quien lo hará?”—“He is my son, and if his own mother can’t forgive him and teach him about God’s mercy, then who will?”

A Bright Future Ahead
By Joe McAmmon

Debra and I had the awesome experience of watching our second grandchild born! Jett Macoy Clements was born on December 27 and weighed 8 pounds, 4 ounces; he’s a big’un! As I held him in my arms for the first time that evening, I experienced something I had never experienced before. You’ve heard of a flashback. Well, I had a “flashforward”! My mind filled with thoughts of what Jett would be like in ten years. What will he look like? What will he enjoy doing? What will I enjoy doing WITH him? Will he be able to throw a football? (You know, important stuff like that)

I looked at my daughter, Amanda (aka Mommy), and I said that I would love to fast forward little Jett about ten years and see what he’ll be like. I hardly got the words out of my mouth and she immediately corrected my thinking, “No, Papa Mac! We don’t want him growing that fast. He needs to stay a baby for as long as possible!” Her motherly instinct did a very good job of squelching my errant thoughts.

But I did “breathe” a little prayer for Jett that night, for his life to be filled with joy, laughter, and hope. And I thanked the Lord for the miracle of life.

For I know the plans I have for you, declares the Lord, plans for welfare and not for evil, to give you a future and a hope. (Jeremiah 29:11)
